NUMBER 65.

POSITION OF TAYLOR

Will Not Sign the Louisville Agreement In Its Present Shape.

HE DESIRES SEVERAL CHANGES.

Reported That He Is Anxious For Another Conference at Louisville — Last Honors to Goebel's Memory.

Frankfort, Feb. 7.—In anticipation of the arrival from Covington of the body of Governor Goebel, Adjutant General Collier issued orders withdrawing all troops from the city and bringing them with the main body at the capitol grounds. These orders will remain effective till after Governor Goebel's remains have been placed in the vault of the Frankfort cemetery Thursday afternoon. This was done to avoid any possible irritation of Governor Goebel's friends and partisans during the time the body lies in state at the Capital hotel and the burial and to allay, as far as possible, the feeling caused by the presence of the state troops. Even the provost guard was withdrawn from the vicinity of the Capital hotel. The commissary sergeants will not be allowed to leave the capital grounds to procure necessary supplies for their men and all drills have been suspended until Friday.

It is stated on excellent authority that Governor Taylor has decided not to sign the Louisville agreement in its present shape. He desires several changes in it, and particularly a definite statement regarding the repeal of the Goebel law. He is anxious that a conference be held in Louisville on Friday night at which these changes will be discussed and made.

The train bearing the remains of Governor Goebel arrived here from Covington at 2:05. The day was exceedingly disagreeable, a fine, drizzling rain falling.

Shortly after 11 o'clock the crowds began to gather around the hotel, and when finally the casket was carried slowly up the steps of the north entrance to the hotel and thence into the ladies' large reception room, where they are to lie in state until Thursday noon, probably 1,000 people were standing around the entrance and in the streets surrounding the hotel. Every head was bared as the remains of the dead Democratic leader were carried into the hotel. In the ladies' reception room were stretched two lines of women, wives of legislators, society ladies of Frankfort and country women, who watched with tear-stained faces the pall bearers as with uncovered heads, they mounted the steps and carried the casket into the parlor. Many of them were crying audibly as the casket, heaped with flowers, was gently laid on the bier in the center of the long room, while not a few men looked with reddened eyelids at the closing scene of the tragedy.

The lid of the casket was then unscrewed and the face of the dead governor exposed to view, while around the bier were placed great heaps of flowers of all kinds, while magnificent floral pieces, the last tributes to the memory of Governor Goebel, were placed along the walls of the room. Thousands viewed the remains.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 7.—There is no activity in political circles. All depends on Governor Taylor and the result of the latter's consideration of the agreement drawn up at Monday night's conference. The Democratic plans for making Louisville the headquarters of Governor Beckham and his legislature were dropped Sunday night when overtures for a peace conference were made. It is presumed they will be taken up at the stage then reached in case Governor Taylor rejects the agreement. Nearly three score of Democratic members of the legislature are here, including the officers of both houses. They are taking no chances, on being arrested and being taken to London. They are anxious to go to Frankfort to attend the funeral of Governor Goebel, but say they will stay here unless they are given positive assurance that they will not be molested by the soldiers.

London, Ky., Feb. 7.—Because of the constant rumors of Governor Taylor's having signed or being about to sign the conference agreement, Senator Jolley sent a telegram to the chief executive declaring that the Republican members of the legislature were unanimously against the agreement. A change of seat would be welcomed by the legislature, as they are already weary of this place.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 7.—The greater portion of the Kentucky members of the legislature who have been in Cincinnati, left for Louisville. This party included J. C. W. Beckham. A few of the members went over to Covington and boarded the funeral train going to Frankfort.

NICARAGUA CANAL.

Uncle Sam Seeks to Control the Approaches Thereof.

Washington, Feb. 7.—A member of the foreign relations committee of the senate is authority for the statement that views with reference to the cession of the Danish West Indies have been officially exchanged between the United States and Denmark. Negotiations are also in progress with Ecuador for the cession of Chatham Island, of the Galapagos group, to this government. By the acquisition of these islands and the possession of Porto Rico and the Hawaiian Islands, the United States will practically control the approaches to the proposed Nicaragua canal.

In regard to the cabled report that the United States and Great Britain are trying to obtain the consent of Germany and the other powers to the Nicaragua agreement, the foreign office at Berlin says that as Germany was not a party to the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, Germany has no political interests in these parts and no right to expect either the United States or Great Britain to seek to obtain Germany's consent to Nicaraguan agreement.

Intervention Probable.

Washington, Feb. 7.—It is learned that under the terms of The Hague treaty, which has just been ratified by the senate, an effort will be made before long to exert such offices as may properly be extended to the belligerents to bring about a termination of the war in South Africa. It is beginning to be appreciated here that the sympathy for the Boers is widespread and increasing, and that it may not be wise to defer too long the offer of friendly intervention to save life on both sides. On the Republican side the feeling is not so strong as it is on the Democratic side, where almost every man is a Boer sympathizer. This situation undoubtedly arises from a desire on the part of the Republicans to avoid pressing a course that will conflict with Mr. McKinley's policy.

Canal and Boundary.

London, Feb. 7.—The officials of the United States embassy deny that any negotiations in regard to the Alaskan boundary are proceeding between Lord Salisbury and Mr. Choate, the United States ambassador, or that a concession of a free port in Alaska is included in the Nicaragua agreement, as cabled from Washington. A question will be asked in the house of commons Thursday as to whether Great Britain has relinquished all her rights under the Clayton-Bulwer treaty in respect to the Nicaraguan canal, and if so, what compensating advantages, if any, have been secured in exchange.

Chicago's Big Strike.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—One thousand men have joined the ranks of the striking working men here. It is estimated that 3,000 members of the Building Trades' council, in protest against the new rules of the Building Contractors' council, are now out and labor leaders declare that by Monday the entire membership of the council, numbering 45,000, will be out, and that building operations in Chicago, controlled by contractors, will be tied up. The contractors declare they will employ non-union labor in force sufficient to maintain operations, relying on the city to furnish them protection.

Colonel Bryan's Views.

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 7.—William J. Bryan, at the close of his New England campaign, during which he has addressed 45,000 people in 18 cities: "The meetings have been gratifying because they show the growth of Democratic sentiment. The trend of public opinion is away from the Republican party, and I believe that each month will emphasize this opposition. The old men contrast the Republican party of today with the Republican party of Lincoln's day, and cannot but note the difference. The young men see their field of opportunity narrowing."

China's Ruler.

Pekin, Feb. 7.—It is generally believed that the dowager empress will not attempt the formal disposition of the emperor at the present time. It is gathered from creditable Chinese sources that the dowager intended to carry out her plans during the first days of the new year, but at the last moment representations to her that such a course probably would create very serious opposition in the south induced her to temporarily abandon her decision. There is much anxiety in native quarters regarding the dowager empress' next move.

IN HOUSE AND SENATE

Rush of Bills Continues In Both Wings of the Legislature.

SEVERAL OF AN IMPORTANT NATURE.

Local Option Bill Receives a Thorough Airing in the Lower Branch. Another Salary Measure. Legislative Notes.

Columbus, O., Feb. 7.—In the house of representatives, the Clark local option bill came up as a special order for final airing and reading. The women's gallery was nearly filled with members of the W. C. T. U. and other temperance societies. Mr. Clark, of Franklin, father of the bill, took the floor and began a thorough discussion in favor of the measure, which proposes that wards or municipalities may vote on local option. He gave considerable data of interest pertaining to temperance legislation and its results in other states. The house recessed at 11:30 and at 2:30 Mr. Clark resumed his argument in favor of the bill.

A motion to recommit the bill to the judiciary committee was defeated, and the bill was passed by a vote of 59 to 37.

Mr. Buell, of Columbiana county, has a bill prepared to exempt from taxation in Ohio the funds of the society of Friends, known as Quakers. The purpose of exempting the funds of this religious society from taxes is that the Quakers take care of their own poor and never allow them to become public charges.

Another bill relieves James W. Ewing, treasurer of Wayne township, Columbiana county, from liability for the loss of $1,005 of township funds deposited in the First National bank of New Lisbon, which failed in 1898.

Mr. Bell, of Pickaway, will introduce a bill to appropriate from the general revenues of the state $5,000 in 1900 and $5,000 in 1901 for the improvement of Buckeye lake park by dredging and deepening the channels for boats. Mr. Bell also has a bill providing that cases in court relating to the administration or settlement of estates may be taken up out of their order to be disposed of.

The house committee on municipal affairs has decided to chloroform the Wells bill to repeal a bond act for Shreve and the Pool bill to authorize Belle Center, Logan county, to issue $8,000 bonds, by recommending indefinite postponement.

The committee on taxation recommended indefinite postponement of the bill to have decennial appraisers begin their work 60 days earlier than heretofore, which was agreed to. The same fate befel the bill to require adjoining land owners to properly maintain line fences.

The judiciary committee reported favorably Mr. Snyder's bill to permit attorneys to swear their clients to pleadings.

A bill to prohibit the payment of employees in script passed the house by a vote of 63 to 33. It is aimed at company stores.

Senate Proceedings.

In the senate Mr. Patterson presented a joint resolution providing that when the legislature adjourns next Friday at noon it be until Tuesday at 4:30 p. m. in order that the Republicans may have an opportunity to attend the Lincoln day banquet of the State Republican league at Cincinnati. It was adopted.

Senator Cohen introduced a bill proposing to increase the compensation of Supreme court judges from the present rate, $4,000, to $6,000, and also increasing that of the lieutenant governor from $800 to $1,800 per annum.

A bill was introduced prohibiting the insurance of children under 12 years of age. This was asked for by resolution adopted by the National Humane society.

A bill was launched to amend the law of partition fences so as to require adjoining land owners to construct dividing fences whether their lands are enclosed or not.

Bills passed: Reducing the bonds of department trustees in villages from $5,000 to $1,000; authorizing the University of Cincinnati to sell certain lands coming to it under the will of Charles McMicken; increasing the compensation of decennial appraisers in Hamilton county from $2 to $5 per diem; authorizing a transfer of funds in Wayne township, Fayette county; creating a judicial court fund in Fayette county; creating the office of official stenographer in Ashland county; enabling any person to adopt children of his or her spouse by a former spouse; to further protect hotel keepers against loss by hotel beats.

Bills were introduced making the open season for all kinds of game birds and squirrel run from Oct. 1 to Dec. 15; to enable Toledo to bond herself to the extent of $200,000 to make preparations for the centennial; to transfer all Spanish-American war claim receipts from the general revenue to the sinking fund.

DAY IN CONGRESS.

Boer and Philippine Wars Agitate the House and Senate.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Mr. Vest, of Missouri, proposed in the senate an amendment to the pending financial bill providing that the secretary of the treasury shall have prepared $200,000,000 of treasury notes to be known as "bond treasury notes." They shall be full legal tender for all debts and shall be loaned by the secretary of the treasury to anybody who shall deposit United States bonds, not to bear the same interest as bonds deposited.

Senator Penrose introduced a resolution requesting the president to detail as many naval vessels as in his judgment may be necessary to maintain a strict neutrality and maintain our commercial rights in Portuguese waters in South Africa during the progress of the British-Boer war.

Senators Depew and Pettigrew engaged in a lively debate on the Philippine question. The former denied the latter's charge that President Schurman had tried to bribe the insurgents, producing a letter written by Schurman. Mr. Pettigrew claimed that facts are being withheld and that Americans attacked an ally and made a compact with slavery.

Desires Mediation.

Washington, Feb. 7.—At the opening of the session of the house, a senate bill was passed authorizing the Southeastern railroad to construct a bridge across the Lumber river. The house also passed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. Mr. Shaffroth, of Colorado, was allowed 45 minutes in which to complete a speech he made last week in favor of mediation by the United States in the South African war. Under The Hague treaty he contended that England could not consider an offer of mediation an unfriendly act. Mr. Grosvenor (Ohio) replied briefly to Mr. Shaffroth, saying that the ratifications of The Hague treaty have not been exchanged. He said he sympathized with any people struggling for liberty.

Treaty Will Be Discussed.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Immediate ratification of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, permitting the immediate construction of the Isthmian canal by the United States need not be expected. Just enough opposition has developed to the provision prohibiting the construction of fortifications at the entrances to the proposed canal to provoke discussion and thus delay action on the treaty. A careful canvas made of the senate does not indicate, however, that this opposition is sufficiently strong to either secure the adoption of an amendment providing for fortification or to prevent the ratification of the treaty without such an amendment.

Last Honors to Logan.

Youngstown, O., Feb. 7.—Thousands of citizens and people from the surrounding towns and country passed through the vestibule of St. John's Episcopal church, where the body of Major John A. Logan lay in state, surrounded by military guards. At 2 p. m. the funeral services were held, the body being deposited in the Andrews mausoleum. The cortège was the largest and most imposing ever seen here.

New Incorporations.

Columbus, O., Feb. 7.—Capron & Currie Company, Akron, amendment changing name to The Akron Printing Company; Rand Hotel Company, Cincinnati, $10,000; Tyrone Transportation Company, Mentor, Lake county, $160,000; Shelby Machine and Foundry Company, Shelby, $10,000; Syndicate Library Association, Bellefontaine; Schopflin Printing and Publishing Company, Cleveland, $10,000.

Miner Crushed.

Massillon, O., Feb. 7.—Conrad Hoar, 40, unmarried, was killed in the Europa mine. Hoar worked alone. A rock weighing two tons was laying on the body when it was found. Hoar evidently had been bearing off coal when the rock fell.

Fatal Collision.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Two switch engines collided on the Wisconsin Central railroad in Franklin park injuring four trainmen, two of them probably fatally.

IN GREAT CONFUSION

A Wing of Buller's Army Is Beaten Back by the Boers.

CROSSED THE RIVER AT TWO POINTS

Second Force Engaged in a Fierce Assault Upon Boer Entrenchments, the Burghers Repelling With a Vengeance.

Boer Head Laager, Ladysmith, Tuesday, Feb. 6.—Since Sunday the British, with naval and other guns, have bombarded our positions on the Upper Tugela. The troops crossed the river at the Pont and at Molen drift with the object of storming our positions. At the former General Burger beat them back and they re-crossed in great confusion. The fighting continues at Molen drift with the Standerton and Johannesburg commandos. There were no casualties on our side. The cannoneade was the fiercest yet experienced. There was a continuous roaring all day long. It re-commenced Tuesday morning with an increased number of guns.

Further reports of the fighting at the Upper Tugela river show that the British lost heavily at Pont drift, but took an important position on a small kopje on the Molen drift side. Four Boers were killed. The British loss is unknown. They are still in possession of the kopje, and the big guns have ceased firing.

ON BOTH SIDES

General Gatacre Is Being Assailed by the Busy Boers.

London, Feb. 7.—From Cape Colony comes the announcement that Field Marshal Lord Roberts, the commander-in-chief of the British forces in South Africa, and his chief of staff, Major General Lord Kitchener, have left for the front. As this information was held up for several hours by the censor, it seems to indicate that an important movement is on foot.

A despatch from Sterkstroom announces that the Boers are attacking General Gatacre from two directions. Firing was proceeding between the outposts. A delayed Sterkstroom despatch, dated Monday, says that a body of troops left the camp Feb. 3, and that important developments were expected. It is quite probable that this explains Lord Roberts' departure, and that the commander-in-chief wishes to be present at or to supervise the long-expected movement by General Gatacre to join forces with General Kelly-Kenny, and thence strongly reinforce General French, completing the latter's work at Colesburg and establishing without fear of serious opposition the advanced position for the main movement.

It can be confidently said that the departure of Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener for the front does not indicate that the main advance has been begun. The commanders will probably be back in Cape Town within a short time. It will be a month, or perhaps much longer, before an advance can be brought about. In the meanwhile the preliminary steps are likely to enliven the campaign with sharp fighting, and news from Storkstroom, Thebus and Colesburg is eagerly awaited.

The war office received a telegram saying, briefly, that General Buller had again re-crossed the Tugela river Feb. 6, and is now advancing upon Ladysmith.

Paris, Feb. 7.—France, England's hereditary foe, seems to wait her opportunity in England's direst need. France and England are at the door of a serious disagreement. If the disagreement comes, it will probably be over the Egyptian question.

The most conservative authorities regard a rupture between the two countries as inevitable unless England should show toward France the same meekness with which she has just allowed Russia to oust British influence from Persia.

Officials say in effect that France does not wish to obtain a settlement of Egyptian, Newfoundland and Madagascar questions at the cost of war, but now is her chance to arrange these matters without shedding a drop of blood or spending a centime. "Even had we no battle ships," said one, "England could only bombard a few unimportant colonial towns. Nowhere could she land an army and leave garrisons."

Tifin, O., Feb. 7.—Robert Simons, 40, of Tyro, was struck and instantly killed by a train. His head and feet were severed from his body.

EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSER & McCARTHY,
Proprietors.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1900.

WEATHER FORECAST FOR KENTUCKY.—Rain turning into snow and cold wave to-day and to-night; Friday fair and continued cold; winds shifting to high north-westerly.

The latest from Frankfort is that the peace terms agreed upon at Louisville have not been signed by Republican Governor Taylor. A number of Republicans were in conference with him until midnight last night.

"REPUTABLE citizens outside of Kentucky would like to see Gov. Taylor show a little more energy and earnestness in hunting down the assassin of Goebel," remarks the Philadelphia Bulletin, a Republican journal. Instead of making any effort to find the assassins, he has done much to impede and hinder the search.

THE Kentucky State Federation of Women's Clubs has adopted a resolution pleading for the enforcement of the law against carrying concealed deadly weapons. A copy of this resolution should be forwarded to Mr. Taylor if he is to remain in the Governor's office. A few days previous to the commission of the recent infamous crime at Frankfort some of Taylor's mountaineer friends were arrested by the police of that city. While in the act of pleading guilty to the charge they were pardoned by Mr. Taylor. Who knows but that these very men thus turned loose fired the very shot that killed Governor Goebel.

THE terrible tragedy at Frankfort has given, if possible, additional interest to the visit of that gang of armed and drunken mountaineers a few days before the assassination of Mr. Goebel. The Middlesborough Record, published in the section of the State where the gang hailed from, should be pretty well acquainted with the characters of the men who composed it. Here is what it says of them:

"Of all the lying, non-sensical bosh, is the statements of the anarchist press that this crowd of armed men going to Frankfort are imbued with love of liberty and justice and have at a great personal sacrifice and inconvenience left their homes and business to prevent what they term a great wrong. It is a well known fact that a large majority of these men went for the mere sake of the trip or a desire for adventure, and because they were furnished with tickets and assured of all expenses. If it was a question of them paying their own way, and if they had not been worked upon by designing men, there would not be fifty of them in Frankfort to-day."

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate the stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, with complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50c. at J. J. Wood & Son's drug store.

HON. C. M. CLAY, JR.

A Distinguished Son of Bourbon County Pays a Glowing Tribute to the Late Governor Goebel.

PARIS, Ky., February 6.—Hon. C. M. Clay, Jr., of Paris, who was President of the late Constitutional convention of Kentucky when Senator Goebel was a member, and who served in the Senate with him and who knew Mr. Goebel as few men know any one, pays the following tribute to the memory of his friend and colleague:

"The words I speak now of Mr. Goebel are not to be considered as the fulsome phrases of praise and eulogy usually given a man when dead, but my honest and accurate analysis of his personal character and public purposes. I always found him utterly reliable and truthful; one of the very few men that I have known in public life who was unshaken in carrying out those measures that he thought necessary for the welfare and protection of the great mass of the common people. No bribe of any sort, no honor, nor political preferment, danger or fear of personal consequences could abate one jot or tittle of that capacity, energy or action that he had consecrated to the service of the people.

"By nature eminently fitted to be a great tribune of the people, he, in the fierce fight for the protection of the plain people against the colossal corporate powers, might have, from a conservative standpoint, committed some mistakes or errors, but this did not come from any abating of the conscience or the weakening of the moral force, but from the fierceness and unscrupulousness of the fight made upon him, and an indomitable desire that the people, whose cause he ardently believed he represented, should prevail.

"A great many of us think that his greatest political mistake was the passage of his election bill. But to Mr. Goebel, who had consecrated his abilities and energies to the fight in behalf of the protection of the plain people against the encroachments of the corporate power, such a bill seemed absolutely necessary to prevent the debauching of the elections by the money and influence of said power.

"To a man who has been somewhat in political life among the great crowd who are influenced by party and selfish motives, fearful of their very shadows, in defense of principle, to a great extent unreliable, it is very refreshing to meet men of Mr. Goebel's high character, brave, truthful and devoted to high principles and worthy purposes. George Washington was no higher type of patriot or friend of the plain people than was Mr. Goebel."

BOOK RECEPTION.

One To Be Held at the Y. M. C. A. To-morrow Evening From 7:30 to 10 o'clock.

Everybody is invited to attend the book reception at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, Feb. 9th, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. A most earnest invitation is extended to all who attend to bring one or more books for the association library. Those who cannot attend are requested to send a contribution.

There have been thirty books added to the library since Sept. 1st, making a good beginning. Many young men and boys make use of these books and it is for this most worthy object that this plan has been taken of helping one of the educational advantages of our city.

Standard works of fiction are preferred.

Those who have duplicates in their libraries can put them to a good use by giving them at this time.

A good program of music has been arranged for the evening.

Detectives At Last Admitted to Statehouse. [Frankfort Special.]

Detectives were permitted to enter the Statehouse grounds Tuesday by Taylor for the first time. The officers were at work all afternoon, and numerous measurements of windows, doors, etc., were taken.

While the detectives would do little talking, they said it was a certainty that the shot which killed Governor Goebel was fired from either the side steps of the Executive building or from the windows of the office of the Secretary of State, on the first floor. They have established the fact beyond question that the firing was done from the lower part of the building.

IN THE BULLETIN'S "East Limestone" items Wednesday appeared one stating that a little son of Mr. and Mrs. Weede Breeze had been badly frightened by the mischievous pranks of some of his schoolmates at the Limestone school. Miss Margaret Murphy, who teaches the school, assures the BULLETIN there was no foundation for the story. She says the child mentioned has been suffering from a nervous trouble, caused through no fault of Limestone school children or teacher.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 7.—Seven members of a Scotch-Indian family named McTavish are reported to have been murdered recently by Upper Lizard Indians. There was an epidemic of smallpox last fall and the story was started among the Indians that the McTavishes had caused it by witchcraft. A council was held, the McTavishes were condemned, and a night attack was planned for their destruction. Setting fire to the McTavish home, the savages shot their victims as they attempted to escape the flames, only one of the family of eight succeeding in reaching the shelter of the forest. Constable Stewart with two men started out at once to arrest the murderers and the trio have not yet returned.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR JOHN MARSHALL, when he learned of the terrible tragedy at Frankfort, is reported to have said to Senator Farris: "It has gone too far for me and I must quit. You and all Democrats must know that I could not countenance such as has transpired here today." "Those persons who are personally acquainted with John Marshall," remarks the Danville Advocate, "will believe that he has been correctly quoted. They know that the men with whom he is now associated do not belong to his class. He is too far above them in every way to be content to remain any longer with them and share the responsibility for their acts. That he contemplates retiring is not a surprise."

It's a great pity the Republicans of Kentucky didn't select a man of Marshall's standing for Governor, instead of this fellow Taylor. Had they done this, Kentucky would have escaped the disgrace heaped upon her by this man Taylor and his crew.

It's a great pity the Republicans of Kentucky didn't select a man of Marshall's standing for Governor, instead of this fellow Taylor. Had they done this, Kentucky would have escaped the disgrace heaped upon her by this man Taylor and his crew.

QUIET HOME WEDDING.

Mr. Wm. L. Traxel and Miss Eliza L. Crowell Happily Married Wednesday Afternoon.

The marriage of Mr. Wm. L. Traxel and Miss Eliza L. Crowell was quietly solemnized Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride, 505 East Second street. Elder Howard T. Cree, minister of the Christian Church, performed the ceremony. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were present.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Crowell, and is one of Maysville's lovely and estimable young ladies. She wore a handsome brown traveling suit. The groom is numbered among the city's upright and most enterprising and worthy young business men.

The couple left on the F. F. V. an hour later for a trip to Indianapolis and St. Louis.

The BULLETIN unites in the hearty good wishes and congratulations extend Mr. and Mrs. Traxel.

A FAMOUS DUEL.

Historic Meeting Between Gen. Thomas H. Marshall and Col. Charles Mitchell.

Names of Some of the Notables Present on That Occasion—Glimpses of Old-time Men and Manners.

[By Dr. A. N. Ellis.]

My old friend and college classmate, Capt. N. W. Evans of Portsmouth, who is getting up a history of Adams County, has just sent me a letter asking me to prepare a sketch of the only duel that was ever fought on Adams County soil. To me it is a very interesting subject, for that fight took place on the farm where I was born and in the presence of a number of my bloodkin. From my earliest childhood I have heard the affair discussed by all of the old people of our neighborhood, especially by my father and mother, while away back yonder when I was a wee small boy I often saw the two principals in the affair eating and drinking and talking and enjoying themselves in my grandfather's hospitable home. Before going any farther permit me to gratefully acknowledge the assistance I have received from Mr. Nixon at the city library in looking up names and dates and details, and the kindness of my venerable friend Mr. John G. Hickman in placing in my hands a long and very interesting letter sent to the Cincinnati Commercial more than a score of years ago, by Col. Thomas M. Green of Danville. Everybody in this section knows what a charming and accomplished writer Col. Green is. His former residence in Maysville and his long editorial connection with the Eagle admirably fitted him to collect and preserve all data connected with the Marshall family, for he is a blood kinsman of the illustrious house.

The very spot where the encounter took place is hallowed by some of the sweetest and saddest associations of my childhood years, for within a stone's throw my brother Henry lost his life by drowning in the river, while a few hundred yards across the field toward the hill is our family cemetery where rest my beloved parents. The trees under which the duel was fought have long since disappeared, and gone too is the river bank, swept away by a remorseless current, as that other tide that is carrying us all away into the outer oblivion of death and forgetfulness! Right here permit me to say that I am sorry that the task of putting the record of this historical duel into permanent shape was not committed to an able pen than mine. Once I heard Senator John Sherman say in a public address before the old settlers of Southern Ohio, that there was more of the heroic, the tragic, the poetic and of the melo-dramatic in the history of this border land than in any of those old storied lands beyond the sea.

The bill now pending in the Ohio State Legislature empowering the commissioners of each county to spend as much as $500 in the matter of the preservation of public records and private memoirs for the use of the future historian is a step in the right direction. By and by some great and gifted writer like Sir Walter Scott will arise in our midst and taking these broken links of individual and family history, personal experiences, records of daring deeds by flood and field, frayed out strands of men's fortitude and woman's patience and suffering, will blend them all into one glorious warp and woof of authentic history—a book that will be read by all men and find a place in every home and school room. In looking over the strange and eventful lives of Tom Marshall and Charley Mitchell it will be well to remember that their earlier years were spent in a time when the code duello was looked upon as a christianizer and civilizer, when there was a superabundance of whisky in every house, when schools and churches were few and far between, when the rule of might was the law of the road, when danger lurked in every fence corner, when the courts were powerless to protect the helpless or to punish the guilty, when the conditions of life were so hard that men and women grew old and gray before their time and when the black flag of slavery obstructed the sunshine and threw its ominous shadow across the pathway of the Republic.

The Mitchell family came from Charles County, Maryland, and settled in Mason County, just after the War of the Revolution. Ignatius Mitchell married a Bourbon County widow by the name of Mildred McKee. They lived on a fine farm of 900 acres some six miles below Maysville and directly across from Charleston bar. From this marriage came eight children, five of whom reached maturity. The eldest son, Richard, became a distinguished officer of the navy and served throughout the war of 1812 with credit. Unfortunately he killed a brother officer in a desperate duel, which led to his resignation from the service and cast a deep gloom over his future years.

Chas. Mitchell was born in 1792. From his earliest childhood he gave indications of the traits which afterwards developed into marked characteristics. He could brook no restraint and rebelled at all authority; defiant, proud, revengeful he struck at once at any and everyone who impeded the path he had worked out for himself or whom he fancied assumed any superiority over him. For some imaginary slight he had received at home at the age of thirteen years, he swam to a passing flatboat and worked his way to Natchez, where lived an uncle with whom he stayed three years. Becoming dissatisfied there he came back to Kentucky, but too proud to go back to the home from whence he had fled he sought and obtained the position of deputy in the office of the Clerk of Bourbon County. Next we hear of him as working for a merchant in Maysville, where he stayed till the breaking out of the war of '12 brought him the opportunity he had always longed for—the career of a soldier! He at once offered his services and was appointed an ensign in the regular army.

Capt. Thomas Marshall, youngest brother of Chief Justice John Marshall, migrated from Virginia to Kentucky in 1790, settled in Mason County and married the sister of Wm. Kennan, uncle of the late Griffin Taylor of Cincinnati, and noted as one of the most intrepid of men of blood and iron who offered their bodies as ramparts for the defense of the white women against the tomahawk and scalping knife of the Indian! Among Capt. Marshall's sons were Gen. Thomas Marshall of the Mexican war and Col. Charles A. Marshall of the Sixteenth Kentucky Regiment of the war of the Rebellion.

Young Tom Marshall was from his cradle a born fighter and aristocrat and from the very beginning could not brook the thought that there was his equal in blood, brains and prowess in all the country around. Hence it will be readily seen that Mason County was too small for two such men as himself and young Mitchell, both of whom aspired to be considered the "cock of the walk," in any company in which they were thrown.

Mitchell was about twenty years old, six feet high, raw boned, light hair and great big gray eyes—eyes that looked you full in the face with a gaze that told you plainly that here was a man who was bent on fighting his way through the world, though an enemy should be found at every step.

Marshall was about a year younger than Mitchell, black haired and eyed, six feet in height, very small hands and feet and a model of symmetry and manly beauty. Mitchell had long practised with a pistol to be in readiness for such emergencies as were almost certain to arise, until he could at twenty paces hit a swinging grape vine an inch in diameter two shots out of every three. Marshall was no expert with the rifle.

They had eyed each other askance for some time, but neither cared to give the other the choice of weapons. The ill feeling originated in the assumption, as Mitchell fancied, of social superiority on the part of Marshall, which he very bitterly resented. At length, on account of some remark attributed to Marshall in reference to the commission in the army given to Isaac Baker and Charles Mitchell the former challenged Marshall, sending the message by the hands of the latter, which was promptly accepted and a meeting arranged. Baker's father and old Tom Marshall, who had been fellow soldiers and intimate friends during the War of the Revolution, soon put their heads together and resolved that their children should not fight, and so soon adjusted the whole trouble in terms mutually honorable and satisfactory. But this termination was a sore disappointment to Mitchell, who cherished an ardent desire to figure in an affair of the kind, determined to balk the peace-makers. It was not long before he embraced an opportunity of using language exceedingly offensive concerning the younger Marshall, which, being reported to the elder, disclosed to his mind a determination to force his son into a duel or degrade him in public estimation. He at once took proper steps to bring affairs to a focus. A challenge was at once addressed to Mitchell and delivered by the hand of James Alexander Paxton, a first cousin of Alex. K. McClung, who afterwards figured in Mississippi. The challenge was immediately accepted, the next morning named for the meeting, the weapons the old flintlock smoothbore dueling pistols, the distance ten paces, the place on the Ohio side, three miles above Aberdeen, on the farm of Washington Ells. John Bickley was the second of Mitchell, Isaac Baker declining to act on account of the quarrel that had just been settled between him and Marshall. On the field, in attendance of Mitchell, beside his second, were John Chambers, afterwards aid to Gen'l Harrison and Governor of Iowa; James C. Pickett, distinguished as a publicist, Secretary of State under Governor Desha, Secretary of Legation to Columbia and Minister to Bolivia; Isaac Baker, distinguished for bravery at the River Raisin and other bloody engagements in the war of 1812.

Everyone knew that Marshall was almost certain to fall. After the ground was measured and all the details arranged Mitchell came cantering up on a little bobtail pony, the last man on the ground. Telling his second that he did not intend to kill, but only to wound his antagonist, he took the position assigned to him as coolly as if sitting down to breakfast. The word was given, both pistols were discharged, but Mitchell was the quickest and Marshall fell with a shattered thigh, struck exactly where Mitchell had received. The floor and walls of the room looked like a slaughter pen. The next night he had with a great big man by the name of Stephen Lee, who quietly and quickly picked him up and threw him down a staircase a distance of some twelve or fifteen feet. He struck on his head and was so badly hurt and stunned that he was not able to get out his favorite pistol. This also took place at Ripley. Mitchell was chosen, as second by Wm. H. McCord of Vicksburg in the fight that did not come off between him and the late R. H. Stanton of Maysville.

Gen. Tom Marshall was "the friend" of the latter. This brought the two old chaps together and over a bottle of Madeira they made up and afterwards lived on terms of friendship.

In 1844 John M. Clay of Lexington, the youngest son of the great orator and statesman, was challenged by a Philadelphian named Hopkins and both proceeded to Maysville to fight. Clay had a letter from his father to Mitchell who at once proceeded to put him in training. The next morning Clay remarked to Mitchell that were it not for his age and probable unwillingness to participate in such an affair that he would prefer him as a second to any one living.

"Oh no," said Mitchell firing under his left leg and peeling a two inch sapling at twenty yards. "By God, sir, not too old yet to enjoy life." This idea of enjoying existence was quite a novel one to young Clay whose blood ran cold at the suggestion. Hopkins withdrew his challenge and the fight did not come off.

In his later years he was sent to the Legislature from Mason County and served one term. He died in June, 1861, of heart disease. He was a strong Union man and his last days were spent in lamenting that he was not at Ft. Sumter with Major Anderson and had been buried beneath the ruins. He wanted to die amid the storm and whirlwind of battle instead of on a bed of a painful and lingering disease.

Upon his return from Texas Col. Mitchell married a lady by the name of Fowke by whom he had a number of children and one of whom, Richard—evidently a chip off the old block—got into trouble with a man in Ripley by the name of Tomlinson whom he killed on the spot. Tomlinson was a prominent newspaper man and a relative of the Wyllies of Brown County. The bloody affair took place on the very night that John Morgan escaped from the Ohio penitentiary. Tomlinson's son—the Hon. Byers Tomlinson, late a member of the Ohio State Legislature from Lawrence County, is now publishing the Highland Register at Hillsboro.

Forcible Facts.

One-sixth of the deaths from disease are due to consumption. Ninety-eight per cent. of all those who have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for "weak lungs," have been perfectly and permanently cured. Cornelius McCawley, of Leechburg, Armstrong Co., Pa., had in all eighty-one hemorrhages. He says: "My doctor did all he could for me but could not stop the hemorrhages, and all gave me up to die with consumption." What doctors could not do "Golden Medical Discovery" did. It stopped the hemorrhages and cured their cause. This is one case out of thousands. Investigate the facts.
